

Abstract of the Disclosure

5 Space charges of electrons which repel one another near masks in electron beam exposure machines are reduced by bleeding gas into the vicinity of the apertures in the mask and pumping the gas out from the direction electron travel.